Product description

Used high quality steel mesh container is one of the most used/sold load carriers in the industry, especially in the steel industry due to the high load capacity and stackable capacity. This mesh container is ideal for small parts and very practical to use due to the 1 steel flap at the front. Sturdy undercarriage on skids suitable for forklift or pallet truck and can be approached from all sides. The top has a raised edge for easy stacking of the mesh container and to prevent unexpected sliding.

Attention! Valve does not close.
